Week 2.
Strategy

THE ESSENCE OF STRATEGY

Strategy involves making deliberate choices to position an organisation advantageously within its competitive environment.

1. Defining clear objectives.
2. Allocating resources effectively.
3. Implementing actions that align with the organisation's core competencies and market opportunities.

"The essence of strategy is choosing what not to do."

Michael Porter (b. 1947): An American business theorist.

"Without competitors there would be no need for strategy."

Kenichi Ohmae (b. 1943): organisational theorist,
Ohmae developed the 3Cs Model.

Common Misconceptions About Strategy

Strategy is Not Just Planning:

While planning is a component, strategy involves making choices about where to compete and how to win.

Not Solely About Competition:

Strategy also encompasses internal alignment and leveraging unique capabilities.

Not a One-Time Event:

Effective strategy requires continuous assessment and adaptation to changing circumstances.

"Strategy without tactics is the slowest route to victory. Tactics without strategy is the noise before defeat."

Sun Tzu was a Chinese military general, strategist, philosopher, and writer
(771–256 BC)

Strategy typically starts with a client brief.

Marketing Strategic Brief

1. What are the core elements of the project?

Project name

Brief management rascl

Responsible:
Accountable:
Support:
Consult:
Informed:

Which agencies does this brief need to touch?

Lead:
Support:

Key dates/timings (In market, first deadline, required response to brief)

Business opportunity (What is the business opportunity? Role of activity? A succinct description of the vehicle, product, program or project)

Key deliverables (Expected outcomes from the brief)

2. What is this project delivering for Toyota?

Brand positioning (This project must 'inspire progress' by contributing to one or more of our four drivers)

Inspired by Impossible
Anything is possible

Challenge Conventions
Never stand still

Authentic Connections
Genuine valued relationships & actions

Be Instinctive & Distinctive Anticipate. Act. Be bold.

Comments:

Competitors (What are our competitors doing in this space? Are there any comparable examples?)

Our brand positioning

Inspiring Progress

It's in our nature to move forward, be optimistic, to define better ways. We create the new, and never ever settle for good enough. Progress takes on many forms. Small steps. Giant leaps. Equally important. Each goal, the challenge of the next. Our vision, passion and an innate commitment to progress keeps our society moving forward. With Toyota, anything is possible.

Challenges (What challenges [market place and product] stand in the way of success?)

3. What do we know about our guest?

Target mindset (The output of this brief must connect to the Optimistic Believers, helping them work towards a brighter future)

Actively involved in creating a better tomorrow

Believe technology is a tool for positive change and equality

Connected and curious - inspired by global and local

Find thrill in the unknown

Challenge norms

Work smarter to go further

Target audience (What do we know about our target segment? (Insights, demographics, psychographics, behaviours)

Guest need (What does the guest want? What is the guest problem we're trying to solve?)

Guest perception (What do they currently think of Toyota?)

Guest perception change (What do we want them to think of Toyota? What will be the outcome for the guest?)

Single minded proposition (If we could say one thing to our guest, what would it be?)

4. What is our desired outcome?

Tone of voice (The creative outcome must fit within the personality traits and inspire action. We don't have to use each of the four traits all of the time but one trait can't come at the expense of the other traits)

Believable

Inspiring

Entertaining

Progressive

Desired action (What action do we want to inspire with this product, program or project?)

KPI's (How will we know we're successful? Business goals i.e. volume, share, targets, stretch KPI's)

Learnings (What learnings/insights do we have from other projects?)

5. Channel requirements?

1. Product
What are we advertising?

2. Task
Why do you need a campaign? e.g. launch product, poor performance.

3. Timings
When do you want to go live and how long will the campaign last?

4. Business Objectives
What targets do we need to achieve and by when?

5. Investment
What budget do you have to make this a success (media + production)

6. Audience
Which buyer segments will help deliver on the objectives?

7. Marketing Challenge
What we know about segments relationship to the product that stand in the way of success e.g. low awareness, low consideration.

8. Brand or Product Benefits
What is the brand or product USP or key features that will drive success?

9. Audience product needs
What do the buyer segments want from a product?

10. Audience emotional driver
The most important motivation? e.g. be good parents, look good, stay connected etc.

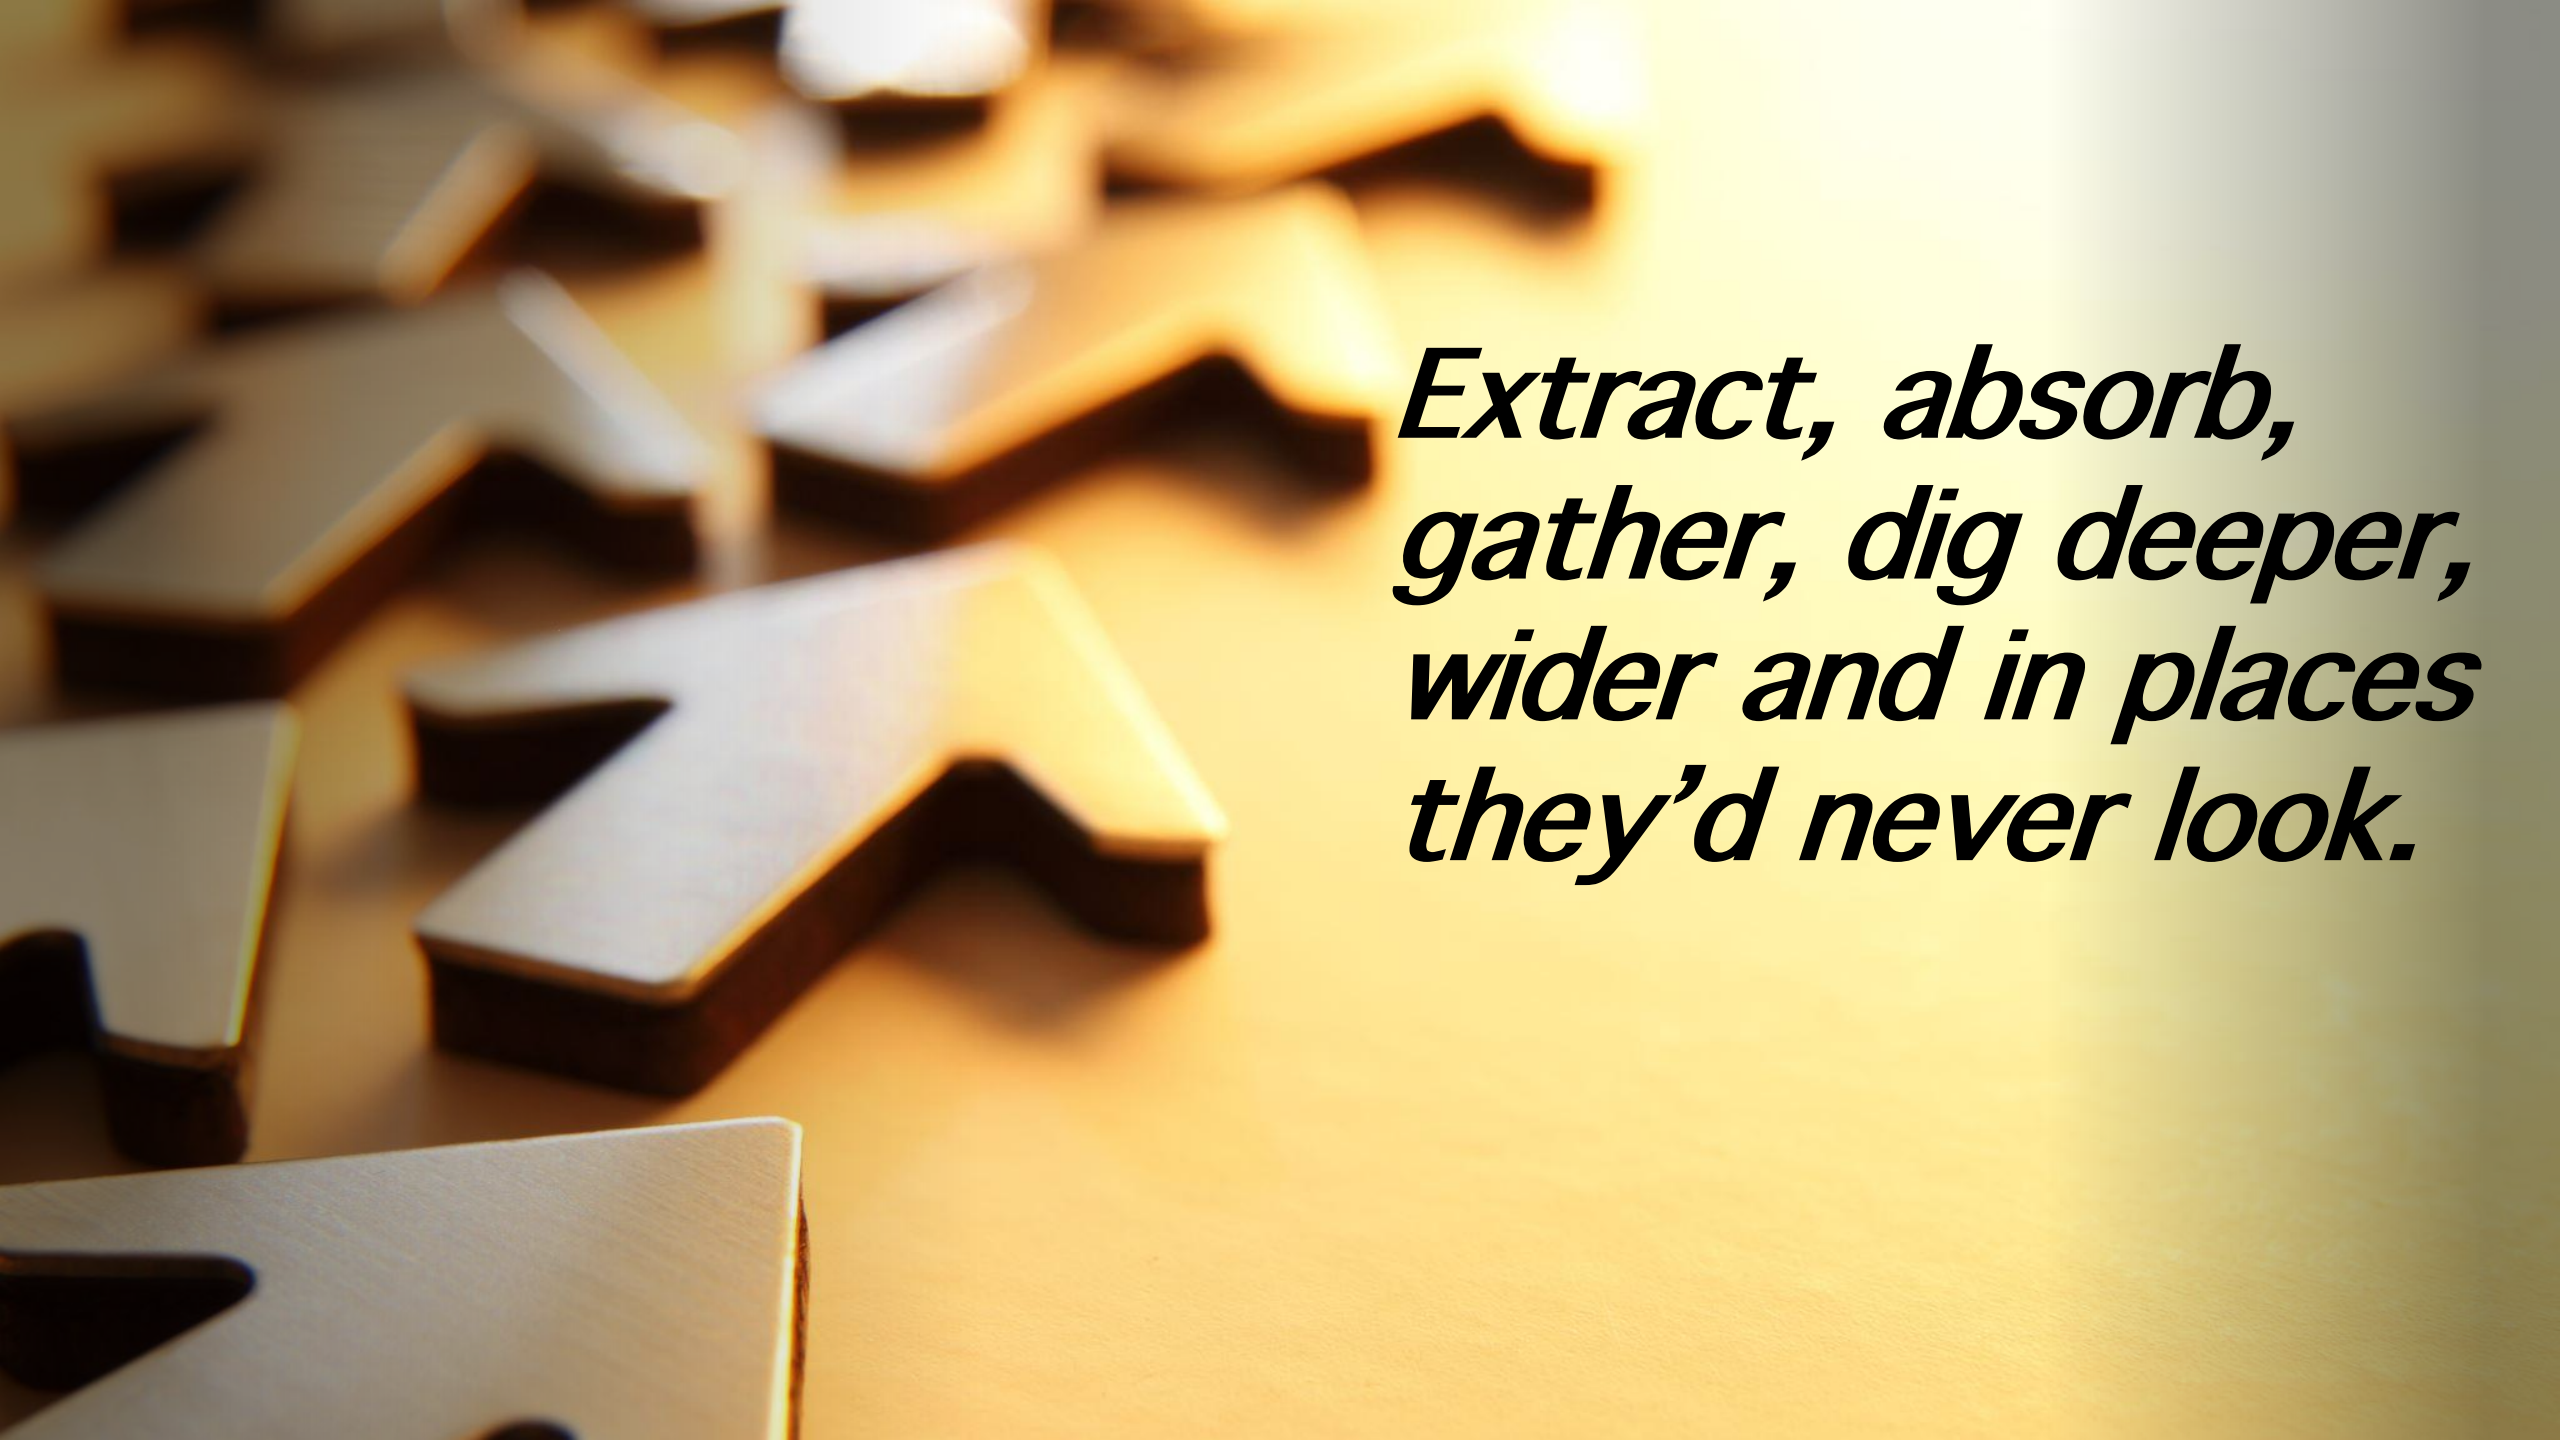

11. Message strategy
What you need to say to drive change

12. Channels
Which channel will best help us reach the segment?

So, what's the role of an agency strategist?

To distil the marketing strategy into a compelling, insightful communications strategy—one that ignites creative imagination and motivates consumers, driving both inspiration and action towards achieving the desired outcome.

Write a Discovery Brief.

- 1. What has worked / not worked for the category in the past?*
- 2. What have/are competitors done/doing?*
- 3. Who are the current buyers? / Who are the current non-buyers?*
- 4. Why aren't people buying it?*
- 5. What motivates purchase (or hesitation) in the category?*
- 6. What cultural conversations are related to the product, category, or brand?*
- 7. What occasions is the product used in?*
- 8. What are the conventions for advertising in this category (maybe to follow them, maybe to break them)?*
- 9. What animates consumers about the product, category, or brand on social media?*
- 10. What tension/controversy/fears exist in the category?*
- 11. What does this product say about the buyer?*

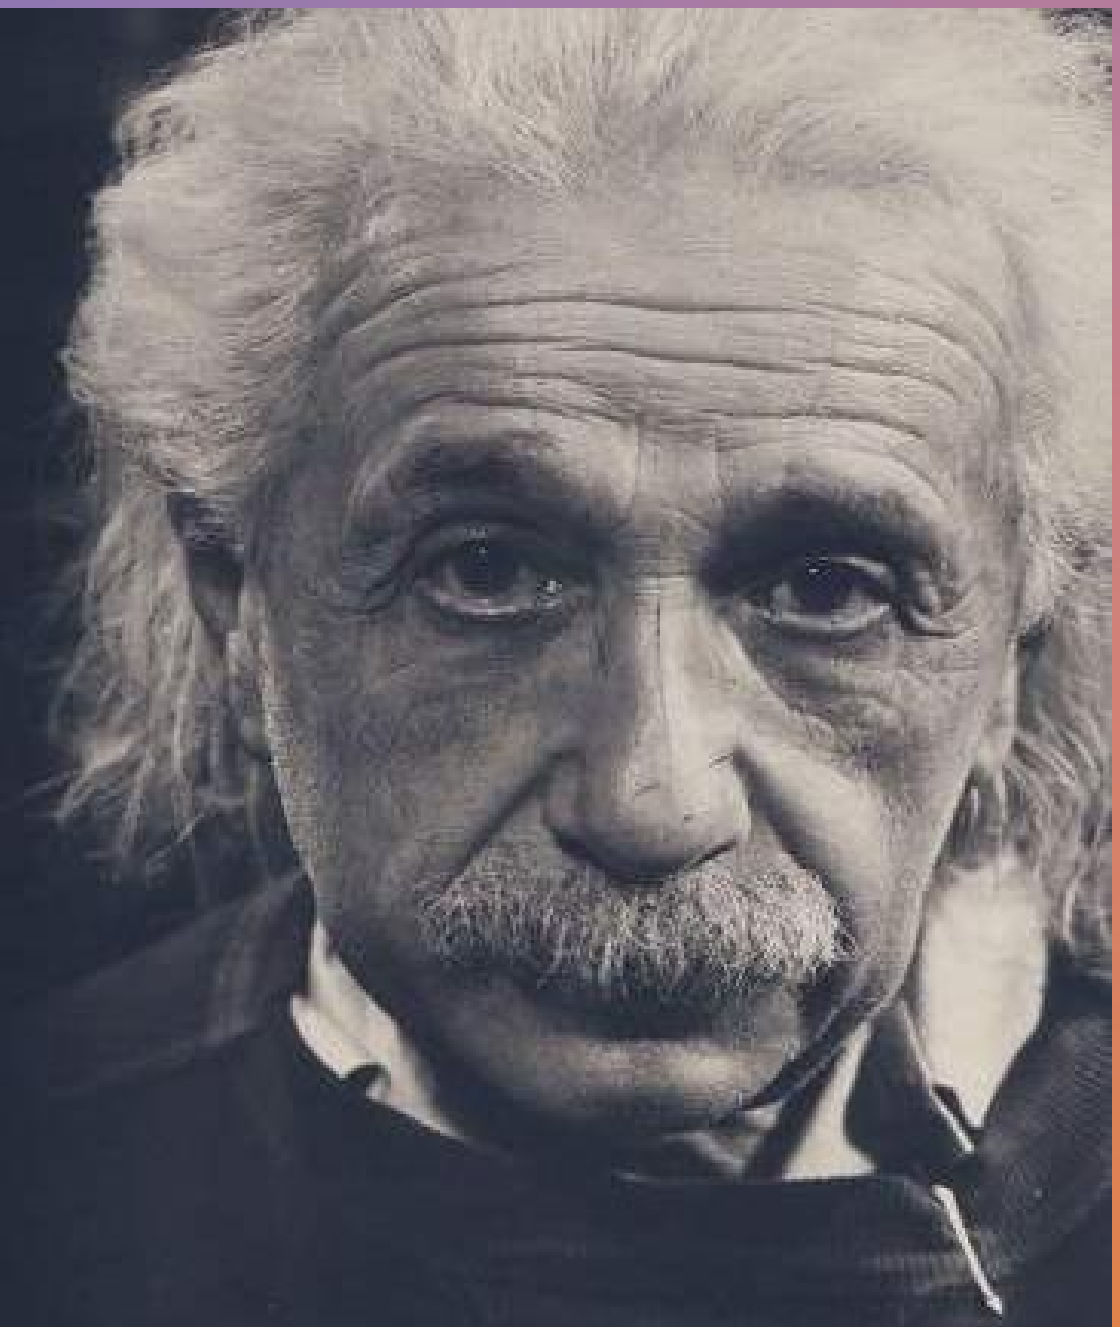

THE PROBLEM

There is nothing more important than understanding the 'real' problem

“IF I HAD AN HOUR TO SOLVE A PROBLEM I’D
SPEND 55
MINUTES
THINKING ABOUT
THE PROBLEM
AND 5 MINUTES
THINKING ABOUT
SOLUTIONS.”

ALBERT EINSTEIN

“If you define the problem correctly, you almost have the solution”.

Steve jobs

Unpacking the problem:

The power of asking why

Business Problem

Our sales have decreased by 18%

BECAUSE our latest range of luxury watches lacks the advanced features that competitors offer, such as smart connectivity and health tracking.

Why it's happening

Unpacking the problem:

CATEGORY

Our sports equipment sales have dropped by 15%

BECAUSE consumers now prioritise health and wellness activities, increasingly opting for products like yoga mats and smart fitness trackers.

CULTURE

Meat-based burger sales have declined by 25%

BECAUSE more consumers are embracing vegetarianism and veganism, driven by a heightened focus on personal health and sustainability.

PRODUCT

Flagship phone sales are down 20%

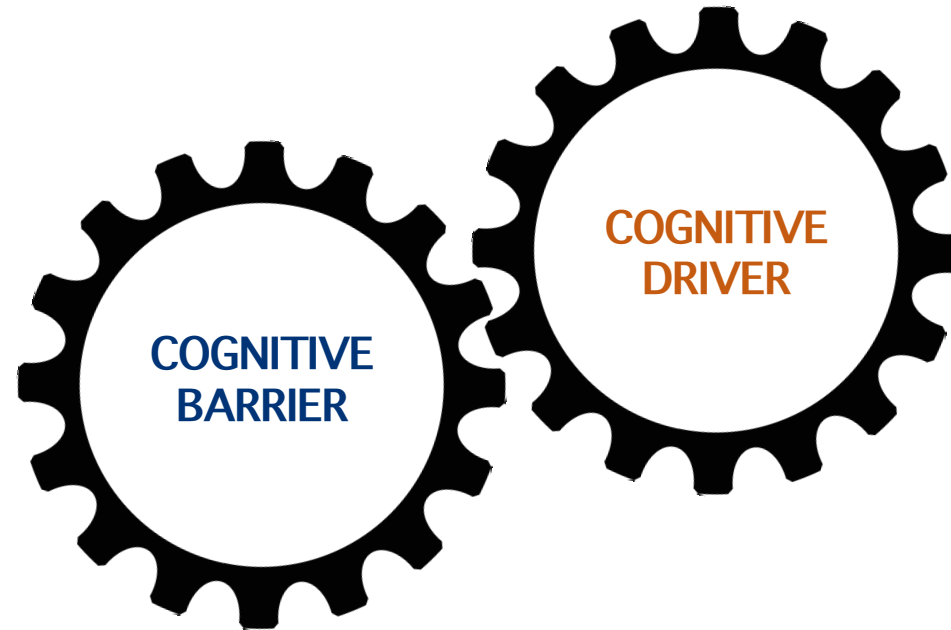

BECAUSE customers see minimal innovation in the latest model, perceiving it as too similar to previous versions and not worth upgrading.

BRAND

Store foot traffic has fallen 30%

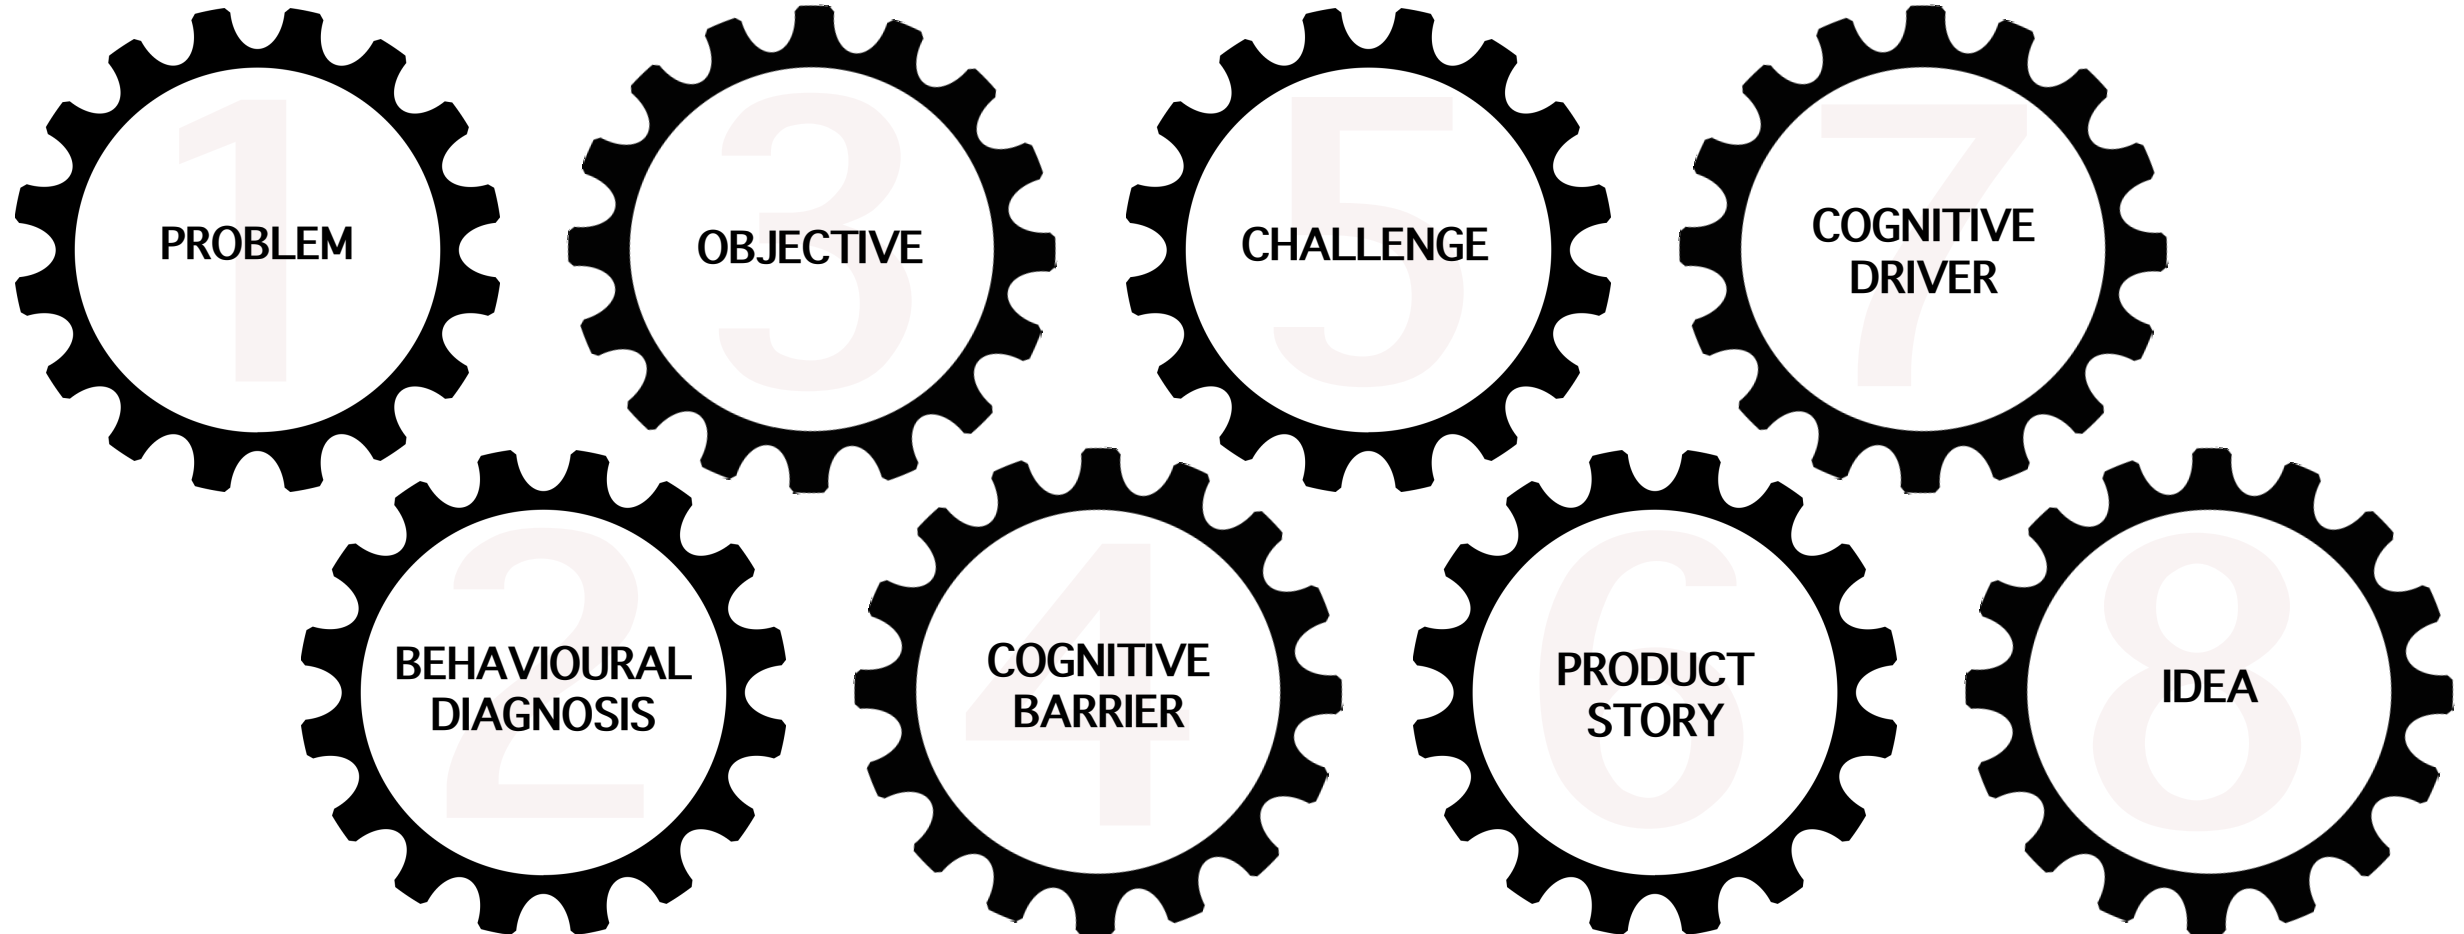

BECAUSE our brand perception has become outdated. Younger shoppers increasingly view us as disconnected from contemporary fashion and cultural trends.
